Instructors

Truckee Meadows Community College Graphic Communications Program is the best in Truckee Meadows because of the fantastic instructors. The instructors at the TMCC Graphic Communications Program come in all shapes and sizes. They are very knowledgeable and are always willing to help a lost graphic design student. In an effort to measure student's growth, each student will complete a pre-class and post-class test and complete a portfolio of his or her work that will include a resume and selected drawings by the student.

Full Timers

For more information on the Full Time Graphic Communications instructors and Michael Ganschow-Green read the information below. The information may or may not have been pulled from tv characters biographies.

Ron Marston

Ron is a stand up comedian. Born in December, he is single, Jewish, likes Superman (his ATM code is "Jor-EI" for Superman's father), has a lucky T-shirt called "Golden Boy" and is extremely neurotic when it comes to germs and cleanliness. Ron once reconsidered a relationship with a girlfriend with fungicide in her bathroom; and another time, he couldn't bring himself to kiss his girlfriend, after discovering her toothbrush had fallen into the toilet.

Michael Ganschow-Green

Micheal Ganschow-Green and his family live in Quahog, Rhode Island. Speaking with a thick New England accent, he operates as if he is smarter than everyone else, but in reality he is. He spends his free time drinking at the Drunken Clam with his buddies, Ron Marston, Dan Bouweraerts and Brian Wells. Michael has worked for various companies, including the Pawtucket Patriot Brewery and the Happy-Go-Lucky Toy Factory. Also, Michael has a long history of fighting with a large, yellow chicken.
